A Blunder at Suez; Another Threatens Panama

You read in Wednesday's Star an AP report that our new delegate to the United Nations, John A. Scali, faces a stormy session of the Security Council when it meets in Panama—the focal point of Latin America's hostility toward the United States.

The AP carried the highlights: How President Theodore Roosevelt, rebuffed by Colombia when asking for a concession to build the canal, is supposed to have engineered the revolt which enabled Panama to split off as an independent republic, and then almost immediately granting the U.S. the right to proceed with the canal.

Certainly this was not a pleasant chapter in U.S. history, but what's happening 70 years later doesn't add to the glory of either Panama or her Latin sympathizers. The fact is, Panama is now trying to maneuver into a position where she, and not the United States, will be running the canal.

The Panama Canal is vital to the United States, with coastlines to defend in both the Atlantic and the Pacific. That was the cardinal fact in 1903 when Colombia turned down our canal project, and Panama became independent and gave us the green light.

But the United States has a conscience rarely to be found in big powers. We paid Panama $10 million for the canal rights in 1903, and, in 1914, recognizing there was some justice in Colombia's claim that we engineered the Panama revolt, paid Colombia $25 million. Not only that, but periodically we have increased our annual payments to Panama.

Latin America chooses to forget our reparations to Colombia, but nothing Panama or her Latin sympathizers say or do is going to persuade our country to give up management of the Panama Canal—not after what happened when Egypt took the Suez Canal away from the French owners who built it. Britain sided with France, but big, bungling Uncle Sam rushed in to take Egypt's side—and Suez has been closed ever since.

After reading the AP dispatch on Panama Wednesday I looked up the facts in The Star's standard reference, the huge "Concise Dictionary of American History," by Thomas C. Cochran and Wayne Andrews (Charles Scribner's Sons).

Colombia in 1878 granted a canal concession to a French company headed by Ferdinand de Lesseps, but the company failed. The United States in 1903 requested an extension of the concession to pick up where de Lesseps left off, but Colombia refused to allow it.

Immediately thereafter (1903) Panama set up as an independent republic and sold the United States the canal rights for $10 million, plus additional payments every year—increased as the decades rolled away.

By 1914 Americans became convinced that out of national necessity we had pulled a shabby deal on Colombia, and that year we signed a treaty with Colombia—not actually ratified until 1921—and paid her $25 million in reparations.

That's what the history book says.

Not a nice chapter. But not wholly bad, either, when compared to the record of most great powers—they stole everything not nailed down, and left without paying a dime.

Finally, the U.S. is the naval guardian of the Western Hemisphere—a job that can't be done without control of the Panama Canal.

That's something the politicians in the Colombian Congress overlooked when they rejected our canal plea in 1903.

North says it won't be intimidated by bombs

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam warned today that it will never be intimidated by American bombing or other acts of force and will not accept American efforts to "impose unreasonable terms" in the peace talks.

As Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho met for the fourth straight day in their secret negotiations, Nguyen Minh Vy told the weekly meeting of the semipublic, four-party peace talks:

"The negotiations have now come to a decisive stage, it is either good progress toward signing an agreement, or continuation of the war. Obviously, this depends on the American side."

With American goodwill, peace could be rapidly restored, Vy continued. But if the United States "clings to the policy of force in an attempt to impose unreasonable terms ... the Vietnam question cannot be settled and the war will be prolonged."

Meanwhile, Kissinger and Tho were joined for the first time in their current round of negotiations by the technical experts who have been working on details of various items that might be included in a cease-fire agreement.

The joint meeting of the top negotiators and the experts indicated that the negotiations between Kissinger and Tho were going beyond arguments over basic principles. But both sides maintained their news blackout, and there was no evidence of progress toward removing the main obstacles to agreement.

In Saigon, the government radio commented that: "No progress should be expected from the peace talks at this time as every available indicator suggests that Hanoi is preparing for the worst."

Communist sources said Hanoi is still ready to sign the agreement drafted in October by President Nixon's top foreign policy adviser and the North Vietnamese Politburo member, but rejects major changes they say the United States is demanding.

Other informants also said North Vietnam has shown no inclination to make concessions despite the massive bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong last month.

Nor were there any indications that Kissinger was giving ground.

The main obstacles to agreement are known to include

North Vietnam's refusal to accept the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu as the only legitimate government of South Vietnam or to recognize the 17th parallel as an international border separating North and South Vietnam as two independent states.

Kissinger and Tho met for four hours Wednesday. The session was hosted by the North Vietnamese in a villa owned by the French Communist party in suburban Gif sur Yvette.

The two delegations again avoided meeting face to face before newsmen, but Kissinger shook hands with an unidentified North Vietnamese official as he entered the villa. It was the first publicly visible handshake in the current round of talks, which began Monday in an icy mood.

Both sides maintained their strict news blackout.

Administration is stunned by rise in prices

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Stunned by the sharpest rise in farm wholesale prices in 26 years, the Nixon administration has canceled a requirement that farmers must take land from production of wheat in hopes of boosting grain and livestock production this year.

The Agriculture Department announced the move late Wednesday, including a removal of a ban against allowing livestock to graze on idled acres "set aside" under government control programs for wheat and feed grain.

"The decision to permit grazing on set-aside acreage was made in order to prevent or alleviate a shortage in the supply of livestock feed," the department said.

Officials disclosed the move after the disclosure on Tuesday by the government that wholesale farm products, including meat and other food products, jumped 6.8 per cent in December.

But the American National Cattlemen's Association, which has been opposed to full-season grazing on idled crop acres, said the action was shortsighted and would not solve the meat situation.

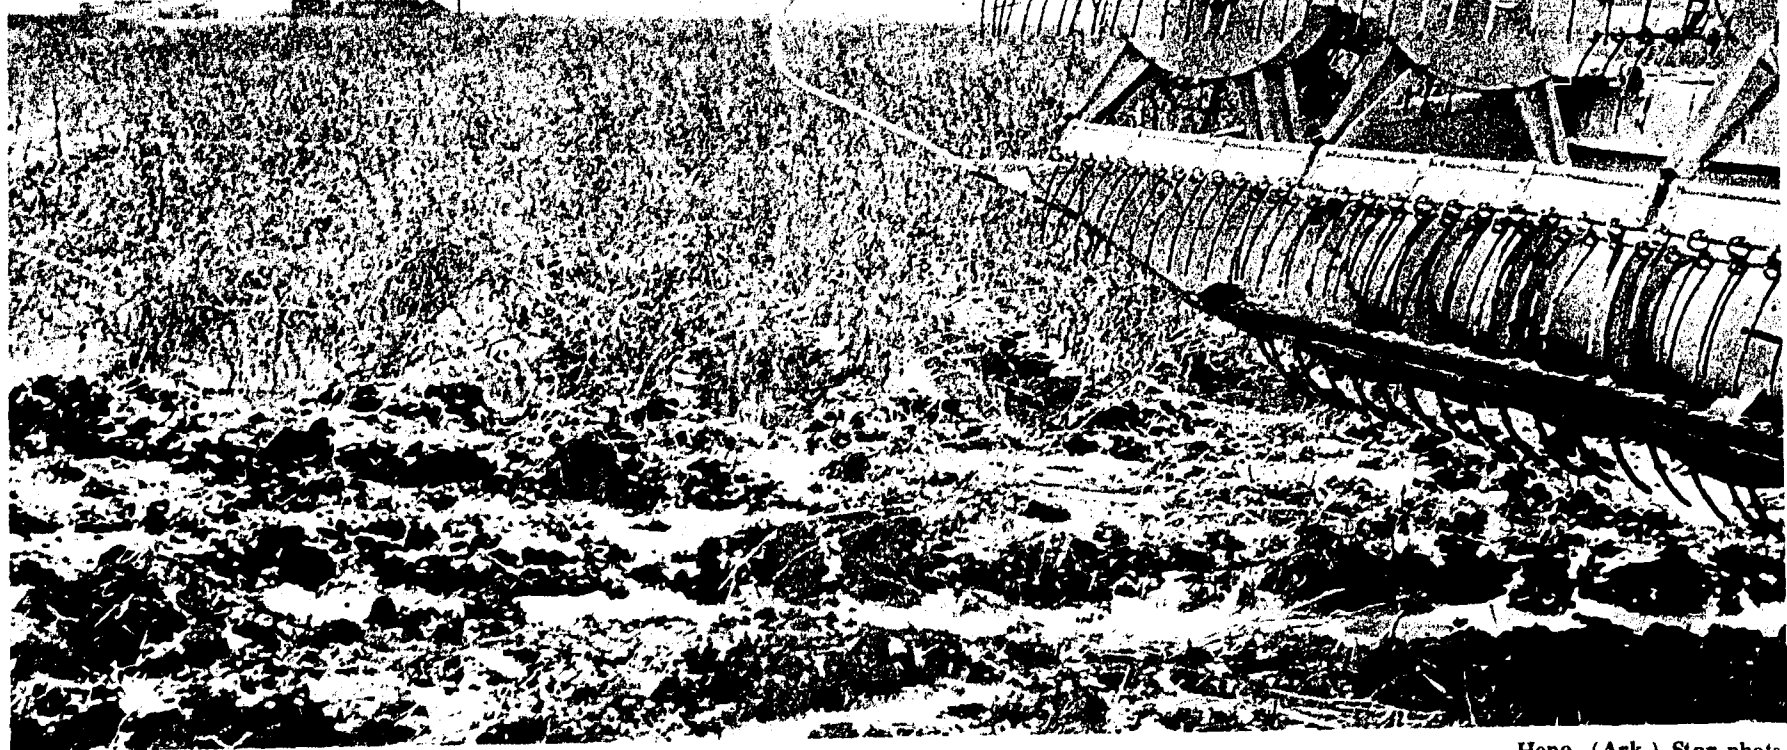

C. W. McMillan, ANCA executive vice president, said in Indianapolis Wednesday night that the announcement was a "stunning surprise" to him.

"It absolutely throws confusion into the whole picture," McMillan said in a telephone interview. "I'm sure it was a reaction to the wholesale price announcement on Tuesday."

McMillan said such action was an attempt at "artificial creation" of more beef.

Weather takes toll on soybeans

Recent rainfall in Hempstead and neighboring counties has taken its toll on the soy bean crops. More recently ice and sleet have added to the problem of harvesting the beans. Soy beans are usually planted in May and June and are harvested during the months of September and October. Months of rainfall have kept the bean fields too wet for the heavy combines and trucks to enter the fields for harvest. Charles Key and his son, local soy bean farmers, have over 500 acres of beans in various stages of harvest. Partial harvest is complete, however, several acres remain to be harvested. Key has been growing soy beans for more than 20 years, but this year has been one of the "toughest" years for his crops, he stated. Usual yield per acre is between 25 to 30 bushels; this year's harvest will be considerably less due to the heavy rains and recent ice and snow. Area farmers report that they do expect to be able to harvest the bean crops but the delay will prove costly. The quality of the soy beans is not expected to be affected by the delay unless the rainfall and snow continue, Key said.

Heavy raids in VN

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. planes kept up heavy raids on the North Vietnamese panhandle today while ground action tapered down in South Vietnam.

South Vietnamese officials reported 54 enemy attacks in the 24 hours before dawn today, the lowest number since the New Year's truce period.

American fighter-bombers flew 144 strikes over North Vietnam below the 20th parallel and U.S. B52s flew 42 more, dropping about 1,200 tons of bombs. The raids for the past two days have been the heaviest in that area since Nov. 15.

The planes were concentrating on storage areas and routes used to move supplies southward toward South Vietnam, the U.S. Command said.

Another 187 fighter-bomber strikes and 51 B52 strikes were flown in South Vietnam, in support of government forces or against known or suspected enemy targets.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said armored troops two days ago found the bodies of 200 Communists killed by bombs about nine miles southwest of the provincial capital of Svay Rieng, in eastern Cambodia.

One of The Watergate 7 pleads guilty -- twice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Watergate defendant E. Howard Hunt Jr. pleaded guilty for a second time today, and this time the court accepted his plea, removing him from the trial of seven men charged with burglarizing Democratic party headquarters.

But before the plea was accepted, Hunt said under questioning from the bench that the prosecution's opening statement outlining a broad operation of political espionage said to have been ordered by top members of President Nixon's re-election campaign was essentially correct.

Hunt is a former White House consultant.

U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica immediately placed Hunt under $100,000 security bond and he was taken into custody by U.S. marshals while his attorneys tried to raise bond.

Earlier, Hunt had pleaded guilty to three of the six counts against him in the government's indictment, in an understanding with the prosecution that three other counts would be dropped.

However, Sirica refused to accept the first guilty plea, saying the interest of justice demanded that all six counts be pressed.

Flanked by his attorneys, Hunt stood stony-faced before the bench and answered, "Yes, your honor," or "No, your honor," to a series of questions aimed at determining whether the second plea was voluntary.

A request of U.S. Attorney Earl J. Silbert, Sirica added a question as to whether Hunt "accepts the essential accuracy of the facts" in Silbert's opening statement to the jury Wednesday.

"Yes, your honor," Hunt answered in barely audible tones.

Sirica said he was concerned about "a proper representation" of public interest in justice.

"The court believes that such interests cover not only the substance of justice but also the appearance of justice."

The prosecution on Wednesday described an alleged campaign of espionage against the Democratic party.

Question remains: 1 sniper?

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Authorities focused today on a key question: did Mark J. Essex act alone when he entered a downtown hotel and hailed gunfire on guests, police and passersby?

Mayor Moon Landrieu scheduled a news conference today at which he was expected to answer question about sniping.

Six sniping victims died and 17 were injured in the shooting last Sunday at the Downtown Howard Johnson's hotel. Police gunfire from a hovering helicopter killed Essex, a 23-year-old black from Emporia, Kan., as he zig-zagged across the hotel roof.

Commander who balked at bombing gives reasons

SAIGON (AP) — The B52 commander who balked at bombing North Vietnam after his 17th mission said today he refused because "the goals do not justify the mass destruction and killing."

"It was not specifically the bombing of the North," said Capt. Michael J. Heck, 30, of Chula Vista, Calif., in an interview. "There is enough suffering just in South Vietnam to warrant a discontinuation of the war. But the massive bombing of the North might have been the last straw and I think the step that specifically pushed me over the brink."

"After the cease-fire for Christmas, the massive bombardments resumed and I decided I had to take the step. I reached the decision Dec. 26 and I went to see my wing commander and informed him of my decision. He advised me to seek legal assistance."

Heck, a 1964 alumnus of President Nixon's Quaker alma mater, Whitlitt College, could get two years in a military prison if a court-martial convicts him of failure to obey a general order.

"I can live with that easier than I can with taking part in the war," he said.

The much-decorated flier said he began thinking about non-participation in the war as far back as last September, when he returned for his third B52 tour in Vietnam. He flew his last mission on Christmas Eve, against the Hanoi-Haiphong area.

"I came to the decision," he said, "that any war creates an evil far greater than anything it is trying to prevent, whatever the reasons, even for the self-determination of South Vietnam. The goals do not justify the mass destruction and killing. It's torn our own country apart."

Heck said he has applied for noncombat status as a conscientious objector. Meanwhile, he is assigned to administrative duties at his base in southern Thailand while undergoing investigation to determine whether he will be brought to trial. Heck was asked about the controversy over whether civilian areas were hit in the Hanoi and Haiphong regions.

"Anytime you bomb on the massive scale we did up there," he replied, "there's bound to be bombs off target, no question about it. I don't think we intentionally targeted civilian targets, but they inevitably become unintentional targets that are going to be hit."

Heck said he was disturbed by some pilots — "only a few" — who want to bomb civilians in North Vietnam.

Asked if other pilots had called him "chicken" or shunned him, Heck said:

"It's very surprising how sympathetic most people are. A lot don't agree with me. A lot do, but for various reasons they can't do what I did. I don't have any family (outside of his parents) and I'm not making the Air Force a career. I have a lot less to lose."

Thin blanket of snow

A thin blanket of snow this morning replaced the ice coating that had plagued the Hope area during the past few days but city streets were still icy and driving was hazardous. Less than an inch of the white stuff fell on the area but schools were cancelled due to the inclement weather. The scene above was taken about 7 a.m. today, looking toward Second St. from Walnut. The band of light in the center of the picture is the headlights of a car which moved across the camera's view during a time exposure.

Army to streamline command structure

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army today unveiled a major streamlining of its command structure to improve readiness and efficiency, cut military and civilian manpower by 15,000 and save about $1 billion over five years.

The Army said its reorganization, first in 11 years, "is designed to improve readiness, training, the materiel and equipment acquisition process, the quality and responsiveness of management, and better support for the soldier...."

It said no bases around the country will be closed, but some will be reduced in scope.

The moves will result, among other things, in a 10 per cent reduction in the Army staff at the Pentagon and a small cut in the number of generals.

A total of 813 military and civilian jobs will be cut from the headquarters staff and another 1,986 will be transferred to other commands or field agencies.

The Army estimated the bulk of the plan will be in full force within 12 months.

Two new major commands will be created to oversee the readiness of divisions and other units, individual training and development of new concepts and doctrine, and perform other functions.

There will be increased emphasis on preparedness of the National Guard and reserves to back up a shrinking regular Army.

Three major present commands and headquarters will be eliminated and the Army Materiel Command will be reduced in size.

Army officials are hopeful that the trimming of headquarters staffs will quiet some congressional critics who have accused the Army of wasting manpower.

The changes will not affect the structure of Army combat divisions, nor will it have any effect on Army commands overseas.

Local base commanders will be given more responsibilities as the reorganization cuts away some of the layers between the field and major headquarters.

The new plan, under development for many months, will create a Force Command at Ft. McPherson, Ga., to deal essentially with the readiness of regular, National Guard and reserve units. This command will take over some of the functions performed by the Continental Army Command at Ft. Monroe, Va. The Continental Army Command will go out of existence.

At the same time, a Training and Doctrine Command will be set up at Ft. Monroe, responsible for individual training, Army schools and the ROTC in the nation's colleges.

The Combat Developments Command, now at Ft. Belvoir, Va., will be absorbed into the Training and Doctrine Command. Ft. Belvoir will continue to be the Army Engineer Center.

Meanwhile, the 3rd Army Headquarters at Ft. McPherson will be disbanded and its responsibilities taken over by the 1st Army Headquarters at Ft. Meade, Md.

This will leave three regional Army administrative headquarters: the 1st at Ft. Meade, the 3d at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., and the 6th at San Francisco's Presidio. These three regional Army headquarters will concern themselves principally with supervision of National Guard and reserve activities in their areas.

Prison official denies using funds from inmates

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The current round of hearings on the constitutionality of conditions in the state prison system ended Wednesday after 14 days of hearings that began in November.

U. S. District Court Judge J. Smith Henley gave Philip E. Kaplan, attorney for the inmates, 10 days in which to submit a brief outlining what the inmates consider to be areas that require judicial attention. Henley gave Ted Boswell, attorney for the state Department of Correction, four or five days in which to respond to Kaplan's brief.

Henley said he would issue a ruling after reviewing the briefs.

Henley ruled in February 1970 that conditions at the prisons constituted cruel and unusual punishment, and the hearings that ended Wednesday were held to evaluate the state's progress in bringing the institutions up to constitutional standards.

Robert G. Britton, superintendent at Tucker Intermediate Reformatory, denied Wednesday that homes belonging to him and an associate superintendent were remodeled with funds taken from the Inmate Welfare Fund.

State Correction Commissioner Terrell Don Hutto then testified that the remodeling was done at his order in an effort to provide fringe benefits that would attract better qualified prison officials.

Paul Gross, former director of security at Tucker, had testified earlier that Britton told him the remodeling money came from the welfare fund.

Britton said Wednesday that the lumber used in adding on dens in the two homes had been in storage at the prison.

Their testimony was in U. S. District Court here in a hearing before Judge J. Smith Henley.

Jack Holt Jr., a lawyer for the inmates, asked Britton if improvements should not be made on facilities used by prisoners before dens were built "with wood paneling and carpeting. Wouldn't this be demoralizing to the inmates?"

Britton said he did not believe it would be.

Two Cummins inmates testified Wednesday that prison officials retaliated against them for testimony they had given earlier in the hearings. After listening to one of the inmates, James G. Ellingburg, Henley said: "You haven't been discriminated against. You get down and go on."

Legislative review

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Sen. Knox Nelson of Pine Bluff Wednesday introduced a bill that would give all Arkansas taxpayers a 5 per cent tax credit on their 1973 and 1974 state income tax returns.

Nelson's bill was one of five introduced in the General Assembly.

Rep. Frank Henslee of Pine Bluff introduced the only income tax measure received by the House.

His bill would reduce by 1 per cent the tax rate for persons whose net taxable incomes range from $3,000 to $15,000 and increase by 1 per cent the rate in the two income brackets above $15,000.

Four senators — Knox Nelson of Pine Bluff, Virgil T. Fletcher of Benton, George Locke of Hamburg, and Jerry D. Jewell of Little Rock — introduced a bill to provide income tax relief for low-income families.

Nelson said the bill was an administration measure.

One of the other bills was by Sen. W. K. Ingram of West Memphis. It would exempt from the state income tax the first $10,000 of net income annually. Sen. Harold L. King of Sheridan introduced the other measure. It would cause state income tax forms to follow the federal income tax concept by eliminating the state tax credit and replacing it with a state tax exemption.

Henslee proposed no change in the tax rate of 1 per cent on the first $3,000 of net taxable income.

The rates he proposed for other levels of net taxable income were 1.5 per cent on the second $3,000, 2.5 per cent on the next $3,000, and 3.5 per cent on the next $6,000.

The existing rate of 6 per cent on net taxable income of $15,000 to $25,000 would be increased to 7 per cent by Henslee's bill and the rate on all additional taxable income would be raised from 7 per cent to 8 per cent.

He said he had opposed the income tax changes adopted by the 1971 legislature because he thought they were inequitable. "I promised myself I would try to make them equitable this time," Henslee told newsmen.

The representative said he did not know how his bill would change the state's revenue picture, but he said he did not expect much change to result from it.

Nelson said the administration's bill would provide relief from the state income tax to low-income families.

Under this bill, a single individual with a gross income under $3,000 would pay no state income tax; a married couple with no dependent children and a gross income of less than $4,000 would pay no tax; a married couple having one dependent child and less than $4,500 gross income would pay no tax; and a married couple with two or more dependent children and a gross income of less than $5,000 would pay no tax.

Ingram's one-paragraph bill to exempt the first $10,000 net income from the state income tax would apply to income earned after Jan. 1, 1973.

King proposed in his bill for exemptions an exemption of $1,750 for a single person and $1,750 each for a husband and wife living together.

A taxpayer could deduct $700 for any other dependent he supported.

The exemptions would be made from the net taxable income of the taxpayer on the same pattern that is followed on federal income tax returns.

King said the change would allow the taxpayer to take exemptions "at the beginning rather than at the end and will create a considerable savings to the elderly and low-income people of the state."

Other tax bills introduced Wednesday included one by Henslee and Rep. Roger Logan of Harrison to repeal the 3 per cent state sales tax imposed by the 1971 legislature on some services, including some repair services.

Five senators introduced a bill that would provide for free textbooks for public school pupils in grades nine through 12. Pupils in those grades currently have to purchase their own textbooks. The measure and a similar one introduced in the House Tuesday are among Gov. Dale Bumpers' legislative proposals.

Reps. Julian Streett of Camden and Tom Sparks of Fordyce introduced a bill creating a commission to study the need for redistricting the circuit and chancery court districts of the state.

Other introductions Wednesday included: A bill by Sen. John F. Gibson of Dermott that would provide free tuition and fees at state-supported colleges and vocational-technical schools for dependents of prisoners of war and military personnel killed in action or missing in action.

A bill by Gibson to establish and operate schools at the state's prison for inmates who are not high school graduates.

A bill by Sen. Ben Allen of Little Rock to regulate the harvesting of timberlands in the state.

A bill by Sen. Bill Walmsley of Batesville to create a second division of the 8th Chancery Circuit.

A bill by Sen. W. E. Rainwater of Greenwood to provide for an additional chancellor for the 10th Chancery District.

A resolution by Sen. Morris M. Cherry of Fayetteville ratifying the proposed women's rights amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

A resolution by Sen. Guy "Mutt" Jones of Conway expressing opposition to any proposed federal or state legislation that would "unduly infringe upon the right of the citizens of the state to keep and maintain firearms of their own choosing."

A bill by Rep. Claude Wade of Yellville to permit the state Livestock and Poultry Commission to establish a market news reporting program.

A bill by Rep. L. L. Bryan of Russellville to prohibit the sale of a firearm to any person who is under indictment for or has been convicted of a crime punishable by a prison term of more than one year.

A bill by Reps. Bernice Kizer and B. G. Hendrix of Fort Smith and Art Givens of Sherwood to transfer the enforcement division of the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission back to the commission from the Public Safety Department, where it had been placed by the 1971 governmental reorganization act.

New rules

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — New rules that would prevent bills from being placed on the calendar if they received an unfavorable committee recommendation were adopted Wednesday by the Arkansas Senate.

Sen. Knox Nelson of Pine Bluff, chairman of the Rules Committee, said the change would give the committees far greater importance than they have had previously. In the past, Senate committees have had relatively little importance because their recommendations carried little weight.

The new rule says that a bill receiving a recommendation of "do not pass" would not be placed on the calendar unless a majority of the senators voted to put it there.

The rule also says that a majority of the members of a committee would be required to recommend action on a bill.

Nelson said the rule would expedite business while strengthening the committee system. He said that in the past a number of bills that should not be on the calendar would take up the Senate's time.

'Mutt' mad

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Sen. Guy H. "Mutt" Jones of Conway, apparently angered at Gov. Dale Bumpers, said Wednesday he intended to review all of the governor's programs passed by the 1971 legislature and indicated he may attempt to repeal some of them.

Jones, who mentioned no specific item, seemed unhappy with Bumpers because Jones said the governor had not conferred with him concerning any of the administration's proposals.

Jones said that he had read in the newspapers of the governor's plan to sponsor 60 pieces of legislation and that apparently Bumpers had briefed other senators. "I feel kind of left out," Jones told his fellow senators.

The senator then said, apparently referring to Bumpers' 1971 legislative program: "We argue over small amounts of money for nearly the entire session and then pass everything in front of us in the last few days."

"In the last 10 days of the session we spent $350 million," he said. "I don't think we can spend the taxpayers' money in this manner and then go home and face them in good conscience."

He said that he intended to review every program that was passed in an attempt to determine if there was "needless hiring of additional employees and expenditure of money."

"Some of you may get irritated or upset with me before this session is over," Jones said. "But if I find that this is the case, I'm going to do everything I can to rectify the situation."

Jones' remarks highlighted a brief legislative day in which both houses largely marked time while their committees began deliberations on bills to be reported out for consideration on the floor.

Among the actions Wednesday were Senate passage of the House bill appropriating $535,650 to pay House expenses of the session and House passage of the Senate's $418,160 expense bill.

Both adjourned until 10 a.m. Thursday.

Bill signed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers' bill to provide free textbooks to high school students was signed Wednesday by 15 senators.

That should make passage of the bill easy in the Senate because only 18 votes are needed for passage.

Bumpers proposes to spend $7.5 million of the state's surplus general revenues to start the program. Textbooks already are provided free to students in grades one through eight.

Sens. Bob W. Douglas of Texarkana and Joe T. Ford of Little Rock are sponsors of the bill.

Report made

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Legislative Council reported Wednesday that budget recommendations approved by the council prior to the start of the 69th General Assembly totaled slightly more than $301 million for the coming fiscal year.

The total for the following fiscal year exceeds $333 million.

Those figures do not include any amounts on eight major budgets, including the budget for the massive Department of Social and Rehabilitative Services.

Gov. Dale Bumpers' recommendations on those eight budgets total $81 million in the next fiscal year and $84 million the following fiscal year.

If the governor's recommendations were followed on the eight budgets, the combined recommended outlay for fiscal 1974 would be about $11 million more than the state's projected income.

The same $11 million deficit would occur in fiscal 1975 if the combined recommendations were approved and revenue projects proved accurate.

The computations do not include about $18.3 million in federal revenue sharing money expected to be available to the state each year.

Sewed up?

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rep. Cecil Alexander of Heber Springs apparently has won the job of speaker of the House for the 1975 session of the legislature.

Alexander, 37, who is in real estate, is serving his sixth term.

He and Reps. John E. Miller of Melbourne and B. D. Brandon of Little Rock were soliciting pledges for the speakers' job.

Legislative sources said Wednesday that Alexander had the job sewed up with more than 60 pledges.

Ward-Pritchard vows said in Little Rock

Wedding vows were exchanged Friday evening, Dec. 28, at Rosedale Baptist Church in Little Rock by Miss Janice Marie Pritchard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett M. Pritchard of Little Rock and Charles Winfred Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Ward of Emmet.

Rev. Leonard Baker officiated at the ceremony with wedding music presented by Donna Hawley, Bill Elliff and Bill Webb. Serving as candlelighters and ushers were Blake Greenway and Larry Grayson of Camden.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of opaque crepe trimmed with bands of Venice lace and fashioned with a ruffled neckline and shepherdess sleeves. Her veil of illusion fell from a headpiece of lace flowers and she carried a bouquet of white pompons.

Couple feted at dinner

The rehearsal dinner for Janice Pritchard and Chuck Ward who were married Friday evening in Little Rock, was given Thursday night at Paul's Lamplighter Restaurant by Chuck's parents Winfred and C.B. Ward of Emmet.

Arrangements of white mums and greenery decorated the table. The 23 guests included Janice's parents, Mildred and Everett Pritchard. Others attending from out of town were Becky Ward of Emmet and Holly Hicks of Nashville, Tenn., Tommy Thomason of Stamps, Lynn Terry of Harrison, Phillip Ballard of Hope; and Larry Grayson of Camden.

Women in congress face problems men never heard of

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—When Pat Schroeder moved to the capital last week with her husband and two small children, she had no idea that serving two houses—one in Congress and one in the suburbs—would be such a hassle.

"Moving in, there are so many things to get squared away," said the freshman member of the House of Representatives from Denver. "School, furniture and carpets, draperies and curtain rods—these are the hassles most congressmen never have to cope with."

"What with trying to open an office at the same time, it's pretty busy around here," Mrs. Schroeder said in an interview. "What the two of us need desperately is a wife."

To which Jim, her husband, added: "I'm now in the role of wife. My commitments and job become secondary. It's like the husband who comes home and says, 'Dear, we've been transferred, and we have to move in a month.' I'm kind of in that role."

"I've had to resign from a lot of things: my job, chairmanships, committees. That's perfectly all right, but now I have to find a job."

Mrs. Schroeder is one of 14 women in Congress this term—and the only one with small children at home. The night after she took the oath of office, she was up until 4:30 a.m. with 2½-year-old Jamie, who had the flu. The next day she directed 6-year-old Scott to the school bus before leaving for work herself.

The Schroeders moved from a rambling three-story house in Denver where Jim Schroeder could bicycle to work to a split-level brick house in Alexandria, Va. Boxes are piled high in the family room, still packed. A deer head lies on the floor, not yet mounted over the fireplace.

Pat Schroeder directs guests to the back door—the new carpet is too large and keeps the front door from opening. At 32, she looks more like a college coed than a professional politician.

"Campaigning can be more rigorous than the position," she said. "We thought for a long time, 'Do we really want to do this to our lives?' I thought, 'Do I really want to become Denver's professional woman?'"

The answer was yes. So Schroeder, 36, who ran for the Colorado legislature two years ago and lost by 42 votes, pitched in and helped Pat campaign.

How do you find a 4-4 major suit fit after a no-trump opening?

You use the Stayman convention. There are almost as many forms of Stayman as there are expert bridge players, but they have this in common. The two-club response to an opening no-trump is artificial and forcing. In its most common form the no-trumper rebids two spades with four or more spades; two hearts with four or more hearts and fewer than four spades, and two diamonds without as many as four cards in either major suit.

Today's hand shows the Stayman convention at work. North wants to be in game and without a club convention would simply jump to three no-trump.

West would open the king of diamonds and after losing a spade finesse South would wind up down two tricks and complaining about bad luck.

The Stayman convention gives North a chance to look for a spade fit. He bids two clubs. South goes to two spades in response and North takes him to the spade game.

South loses the spade finesse, but this does not stop him from collecting the spade game.

A—Bid six clubs. No guarantee goes with this, but it looks like a mighty good gamble.

Instead of bidding five clubs, your partner has bid four spades in response to your double. What do you do now?

Just advising, not drumming up business

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: A woman who was married for 46 years wrote a long story about how hard her husband was to live with. She asked you whether she should choose divorce or suicide, and she signed herself "Suffered Enough."

You told her divorce was preferable. Are you married to a divorce lawyer, Abby?

NOSY

DEAR NOSY: No. Are you married to an undertaker?

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for nearly a year to a nice guy who has lots to offer, but I want out. Buddy and I were married because we thought I was pregnant. It turned out I wasn't.

At first I was happy. Then I started to miss going out with other guys and having fun. Before I got married I had lots of boy friends and now I miss all that.

Buddy hasn't mistreated me, and I really do like him, but I don't love him, and I can't see staying married to someone I don't love for the rest of my life.

I talked to my pastor and he told me to "grow up," which was no help at all. What I really want is a divorce, but on what grounds? And how should I break the news to Buddy? I hate to just walk out.

WANTS OUT

DEAR WANTS: If Buddy doesn't know what's on your mind, level with him — and right now! No "nice guy with lots to offer" would want to stay married to a girl who doesn't love him and wants out. This is a matter for both of you to decide. He may be as glad to get rid of you as you are to get rid of him.

DEAR ABBY: Because you appear to be an intelligent woman who has managed to combine a successful marriage and family with a career, I am hoping you can offer me some encouragement.

I am a 24-year-old, reasonably intelligent woman. My husband is a young professional man who is presently establishing himself in business. We have a beautiful baby, 6 months old.

I have two years of college credits and want to return to get my degree. When the baby is a year old I plan to take a light course to begin with, and will be away from home only three mornings a week. My husband is 100 per cent for it, but my parents think I am crazy.

My mother tells me if I go back to college it will be the ruin of my marriage. My father feels a woman should be allowed to go to college only in order to find a rich husband, after which she should stay home and have a baby every year.

I don't feel that I am in any way jeopardizing my marriage. In fact, I think I'm "protecting" it. After all, how many husbands who are getting ahead in the world want to come home to wives who can't talk about anything except toilet training and the price of ground chuck?

I know I'm doing the right thing. All I need is some encouragement from you.

BACK TO COLLEGE

DEAR BACK: You have it. Your parents may mean well, but they're off the beam.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "JUST ASKING" IN CLEVELAND: Yes, I carry on my person two cards. One indicating that immediately upon my death, my eyes shall go to someone who can use them, the other, my kidneys. No matter what else I leave behind, these, I think, will be the most precious.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Getting into swing of gymnastics

By JOAN RYAN
WASHINGTON (NEA)

Cathy Rigby, the Kewpie doll Olympic gymnast, lit a fire that is still smoldering when she appeared nude last August in Sports Illustrated. She bared her neat little backside in the noble name of sport and gave gymnastics a much-needed shot in the arm.

Millions of viewers rushed to their TV sets for the girls' gymnastics events from Munich and were inspired, not only by the sultry-eyed, pigtailed Cathy, but by Russia's ugly duckling, Olga Korbut. Olga became everybody's favorite child with her breathtaking performance on the non-parallel bars. Her heartbreaking goof that cost her a gold medal in the finals brought a flow of sympathetic tears.

One result of this emotional involvement with two delightful and graceful girls has been a renewed interest in gymnastics, especially, I might add, from the boys.

The local junior high school in my area was deluged with requests from boys to install a program, like the girls' existing one, of competitive gymnastics.

The request was granted, and my 13-year-old son, a Cathy Rigby fan, was the first to sign up.

Outfitting him was inexpensive. A pair of hand-grip gloves and some ballet-type slippers, and he was ready to go.

After attending a few meets, I was surprised at how quickly these awkwardly growing boys mastered the intricacies of body control. It seemed so natural for them and soon I realized that gymnastics is only an advanced exercise of the games children play when left to their own devices.

Rolling, tumbling, somersaulting, swinging from bars and chinning themselves were activities I'd watched from the kitchen window as my growing sons played in piles of leaves or shinnied up trees in the backyard.

I began to think that this natural activity should be expanded and that formal gymnastics should be taught to children long before they are 13 years old.

Dr. James A. Nicholas, team physician for the New York Jets, addressed the Western Orthopedic Association in Houston, Tex., and described two inherited body types: "loose" and "tight." He recommended testing children early to determine which body type they exhibit so that the sports they choose to learn will be better fitted to their physical capabilities.

The "tight" are suited for power sports, high-velocity sports and contact sports such as weight-lifting, football, hockey, etc. The loose-jointed athlete, while he might succeed in such sports, is more subject to injuries of ligaments, dislocations and sprains. The tight athlete is prone to muscle tears.

A tight person can become more flexible through water sports, gymnastics and modern dance. But a loose person, to whom these sports come more easily, cannot be tightened up.

So gymnastics is the perfect sport for all children. It is easily mastered by those with natural flexibility and it develops agility in those who are more rigid. And think of the sports injuries that could be prevented by this acquired flexibility!

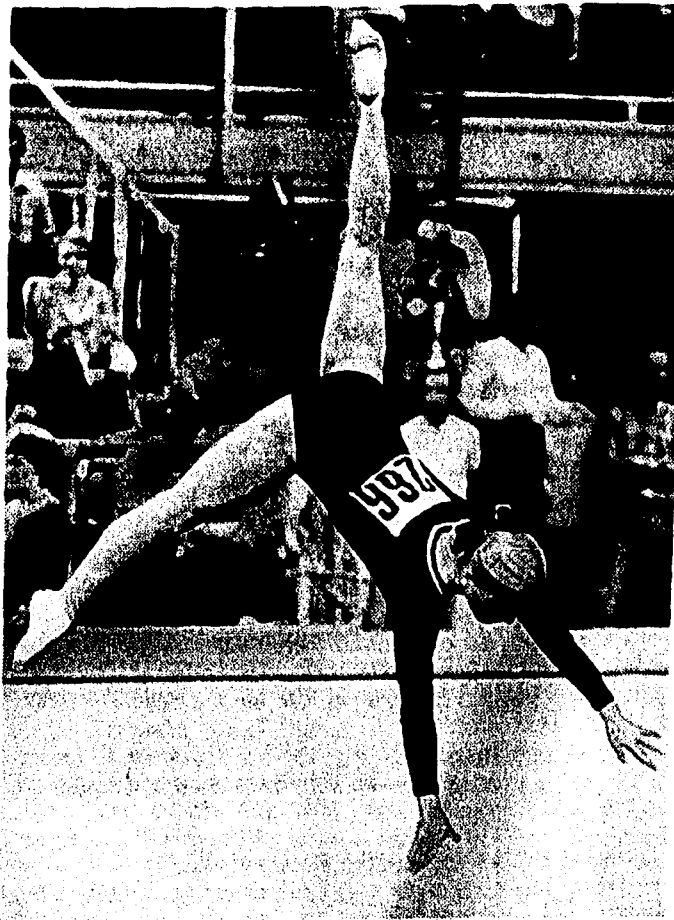

"Jaguar" Jon Arnett, a flashy running back for the Los Angeles Rams in the late '50s, said his background in tumbling accounted for his lack of injury on the football field. He put his gymnastics to good use by "rolling into a fall." His durability, despite the punishment he took from defenders much larger than he, was a marvel.

It is inexpensive to outfit an elementary school for simple gymnastic exercises. A few floor mats and a teacher to demonstrate the skills could launch a program that both instructs and protects children in their super-active years.

I watched my 5-4, 135-pound son, who in his ballet slippers looked like a California sequoia transplanted into an African violet pot, struggle to hoist his own weight on the rings. I giggled as his friends, sporting English sheep-dog haircuts, somersaulted and leaped like performing poodles in the floor exercises. And I vowed that my 3-year-old son would begin his gymnastics tomorrow.

The toddler is primed for gymnastics already. When ABC's Wide World of Sports flashes its introduction on the TV screen on Saturday afternoon, he's the first one there. "Dere Cathy Rigby," he says with masculine admiration.

Lackey leads Nets in romp over Carolina

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — The Nets' Bob Lackey went into Wednesday night's game against league-leading Carolina with a 2.6 scoring average, a 32.9 shooting percentage and quite a few splinters from sitting on the New York bench.

But with starting guards John Roche sidelined with the flu and Bill Melchionni out after reinjuring the lower ligaments of his left ankle, Nets Coach Lou Carnesecca was desperate for backcourtmen.

He had Brian Taylor, the rookie who passed up his senior year at Princeton to sign a lucrative "hardship" contract with the Nets. And he had Lackey, a 6-foot-5 rookie from Marquette who played forward in college.

The first thing Carnesecca did was put out an emergency call to Brian Mahoney, the rookie from Manhattan who played briefly for the Nets before being cut last month. Mahoney was at his job as a schoolteacher when he got the word from Carnesecca, but by game-time he was a Net again.

The second thing Carnesecca did was make a starter out of Lackey.

The youngster responded with his best game by far as a pro, scoring 21 points—his first effort in double figures—and leading the Nets to a 105-93 victory over Carolina. That ended the Cougars' 11-game winning streak, longest in the American Basketball Association this year.

"I'm always ready to play," said a tired but happy Lackey after the game. "I was just waiting to get my chance. Tonight when I went in I told myself I have to play an even game, not try to do it all by myself. I took some good shots tonight."

He made them, too. Lackey sank six of 10 field goal attempts and added nine of 11 from the free throw line for his team-high 21 points. Taylor, center Billy Paultz and forward George Carter backed him up with 18 points apiece, offsetting a 36-point outburst by Carolina's Billy Cunningham.

In the only other ABA game, Dallas defeated San Diego 124-111 and Denver edged Indiana 106-105 in a doubleheader at Denver.

In the National Basketball Association, Boston whipped Houston 128-128-107, Kansas City-Omaha nipped Chicago 102-100, Los Angeles beat Philadelphia 120-96, Phoenix edged Detroit 123-121 and Baltimore topped Seattle 98-86.

Kings nip Bulls

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nate "Tiny" Archibald got some help from the grand old man of the National Basketball Association, 39-year-old Johnny Green, and the combination proved too much for the Chicago Bulls Wednesday night.

Archibald, the NBA leader in scoring and assists, scored 37 points for Kansas City-Omaha—including two twisting layups in the final two minutes—as the Kings nipped the Chicago Bulls 102-100.

But it took a key defensive play by Green to preserve the victory.

With the Kings leading 102-98, Garfield Heard of Chicago hit a jumper from the corner with 29 seconds to go. The Kings couldn't score and, following a time-out, Chicago put the ball in play with five seconds to go. But Green foiled the Bulls' try for a game-tying basket by knocking the ball away from Bulls guard Norm Van Lier just before the final buzzer.

Bob Love was high scorer for Chicago with 36 points, but he got just two of those in the final period.

SFA moves to top of poll

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1972-73 season is looked upon as the "year of the big promise" for the Lumberjacks from Stephen F. Austin State University. They are adhering to that big promise as they climbed to the top spot in this week's Associated Press basketball poll.

Stephen F. Austin, 10-1 after rapping Tarleton, 106-84, took over the top spot from Louisiana Tech even though Tech, too, was victorious in its only outing.

Eau Claire of Wisconsin finished third in the polling by sportswriters and broadcasters.

Sam Houston State got more first place votes than any other college division team but managed only fourth place due to the overall points in the balloting.

Roanoke, 7-2 which did not play last week, dropped to fifth place. Others in the top ten were Augustana, Ill.; Kentucky State, Capital, Akron and Assumption.

The Top Ten, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-10-8-6-4-2:

1. S.F. Austin (2) 10-1 220
2. Louisiana Tech (2) 9-2 208
3. Wis-Eau Claire (1) 8-1 200
4. Sam Houston (5) 9-0 196
5. Roanoke (1) 7-2 186
6. Augustana, Ill. (1) 11-1 104

Rentzel in trouble again

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lance Rentzel, the wide receiver of the Los Angeles Rams, has been booked for investigation of possession of marijuana for sale after police found a half-pound of the drug at his Hollywood home, authorities said.

The 29-year-old former Oklahoma star was taken into custody at his home Wednesday afternoon after police armed with a search warrant found the drug and what they said were "narcotics paraphernalia." He was released four hours later from the West Los Angeles police station on $5,000 bail.

It was the second scuffle with the law for Rentzel in 20 months. In April 1971, while with the Dallas Cowboys, Rentzel pleaded guilty to a charge of exposing himself to a 10-year-old girl. He was given a five-year probation sentence, under the condition that he receive regular medical and psychiatric care.

Speculation centered around Eric Groscurth moving into Robinson's position.

X-Rays were taken Tuesday of the knee after it did not respond to preliminary treatment.

Robinson is the holder of eight Texas school records.

Lamar smashes Lamar

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Lamar played Lamar in college basketball Wednesday night. Who won? Why, Southwestern Louisiana, of course. When Dwight Lamar leads Southwestern against namesake Lamar University, he does a pretty good number on his opponents.

Last year, the number was 51 points in a Ragin' Cajun' romp and Wednesday night, the high-powered guard hit for 34 before leaving as Southwestern Louisiana smashed Lamar U. 129-111.

"We finally got it all together and we're ready to play as a team," said Southwestern Coach Beryl Shipley. "We've forgotten about all the extra publicity we received this past weekend, it seems, and have decided to play basketball."

Lamar and his gang needed a soft touch after recent problems that put the Cajuns' in the National Collegiate Athletic Association's dog house.

NCAA charges of player recruiting violations came to light last weekend. And a federal judge will hold a hearing next Monday to decide whether the school needs more time to prepare its case for an investigation by the national collegiate body.

This problem was given as a partial excuse for the Cajuns' lopsided loss to Jacksonville last Saturday.

Shipley's crew, however, topped Cincinnati Monday night in a tense overtime match in New York. And the latest success for the 13th-ranked club has put new life back into their maligned coach.

"As long as our first eight players were in the game, they had complete control," he said happily.

In the night's other major games, third-ranked North Carolina State beat Duke 94-87;

No. 7 North Carolina demolished Clemson 92-58; No. 10 Houston turned back Baylor 86-82; 11th-ranked Providence slammed Western Kentucky 118-88; Jacksonville, No. 15, cut down Furman 73-71 and 17th-rated Kansas State nipped SMU 57-55.

Lamar University, despite shooting a hot 53 per cent from the field, wilted under an even warmer 62 per cent by Southwestern Louisiana.

Big Tom Burleson and little Monte Towse each scored 21 points as North Carolina State trimmed Duke. The Blue Devils made things interesting with a 31-point performance by Chris Redding and a 21-point night from Gary Melchionni.

George Karl scored 23 points to lead five men in double figures as North Carolina crushed outclassed Clemson.

Texas loses Robinson for remainder of season

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas faces Saturday's Southwest Conference basketball opener against Baylor without the services of 1972 SWC Player of the Year Larry Robinson, who is out for the season with a broken kneecap.

The 6-foot-6 Hobbs, N.M. forward, averaging 18.1 points per game, suffered a non-displaced fracture of the patella of the left knee in Texas' game last Thursday with Oklahoma.

Robinson, a junior, will not undergo surgery. A cast will be placed on the knee for five to six weeks and total rehabilitation will require 8-10 weeks.

Coach Leon Black said "There is simply no way to describe his value to our basketball team. We have to look at several options to fill the gap, but we're talking about trying to replace an outstanding all-around basketball player."

Special deer hunt slated

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Andrew Hulsey, director of the state Game and Fish Commission, approved Wednesday a special two-day deer hunt for Saturday and Sunday at Maumelle New Town near North Little Rock.

Hulsey said 150 hunting permits at $5 each had been issued to Jess Odom Enterprises. The director said that Odom could sell or give the permits to whom he chooses, because Odom Enterprises owns the land on which the hunt will be held.

Hulsey said the permits were issued under a regulation approved by the commission in 1966 that allows permits for hunts in areas where the deer population has grown to proportions that would constitute a nuisance.

The director said such hunts were common and had been held in other areas of the state. "For some reason, though, this one seems to be raising a stink," he said.

He said that when a person applies for permits for such a hunt a commission biologist is sent to the area to determine if the hunt is warranted.

Pitchers-infielders dominate opening round of drafts

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's annual winter draft of free agent prospects was about halfway through its opening round Wednesday when the conference telephone call connection linking the 24 major league clubs broke down in Oakland.

When the man from the A's rejoined the conversation, he asked for a rundown of the half dozen or so selections he had missed. As Johnny Johnson, administrative assistant to Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, reeled off the names, the Oakland man interrupted him with a puzzled question. "How come," he asked, "I don't have any of these guys on my list?"

One guy on just about everybody's list was Arizona State shortstop Alan Bannister and Philadelphia, drafting first, claimed him in a hurry and then signed the youngster for "a substantial bonus."

Was it as substantial as the reported $100,000 the young shortstop turned down from California a few drafts ago?

"You can assume it's close to that," said Bannister.

Centenary was charged with allowing some players financial aid, even though the players are not expected to attain the 1.6 academic grade average NCAA rules require. Highly recruited basketball star Bob Parish falls into this category, the council noted.

The council sidestepped expected punishment of Southwestern Louisiana, charged with numerous infractions in recruiting its basketball team currently ranked number 13 in the AP's national poll.

The southern school obtained a federal court order restraining any NCAA probe until next Monday and the council, by then adjourned, may forestall action until its next regular meeting in April.

The New Mexico State case included charges that John Williamson, currently among the nation's basketball scoring leaders, and teammate Roland Grant, during 1970-71 received "improper compensation and financial benefits."

Western Kentucky's infractions, mainly noted in 1970-71, were cited as "provided or promised improper inducements" to as many as six basketball prospects at various times; tryouts and out-of-season drills in basketball; unauthorized transportation of prospects and improper pre-enrollment testing of one prospect in 1969.

Howard University's troubles centered on use of two Trinidad soccer stars on its 1971 NCAA championship team after each had the maximum five varsity seasons, including a year of foreign competition.

NCAA cracks down on code violators

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association launched today one of the most important annual conventions in its 67 year history after punishing four members for infractions of the NCAA code.

The group's governing council Wednesday placed Centenary College of Shreveport, La. on indefinite probation and Western Kentucky and New Mexico State on two-year probation—all three for basketball program violations—and meted a one-year probation to Howard University while automatically vacating the Washington, D.C. school's 1971 NCAA soccer championship.

The sanctions barred the basketball teams of Western Kentucky, New Mexico State and Centenary from all post-season tournament play and NCAA-governed TV appearances for their probation duration.

Howard is banned one year from competing in the National Collegiate Soccer Championship.

Bowl of surprises is in store for super Sunday

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Washington's Redskins fear the Miami passing attack because nobody sees it enough to know what it is.

Bob Griese can throw and Earl Morrall can throw but neither throws very much. What they'll do in the Super Bowl Sunday remains to be discovered.

"They're very similar to our ball club offensively," says Coach George Allen of Washington. "We live by the run and they live by the run. We pass sparingly and they pass sparingly."

"They have two good outside receivers who can block—Warfield and Twiley. The only difference might be that with Griese in the lineup now, they have the threat of the scramble pass. But any time he scrambles, he scrambles at his own risk."

When Griese suffered a broken ankle early in the season, the 38-year-old Morrall was pressed into service. He led the American Football Conference in passing with 83 completions in 150 attempts for 1,360 yards and 11 touchdowns.

He was also voted the division's top quarterback by The Associated Press.

So when Coach Don Shula goes for Griese in this Super Bowl game, you can see the estimation in which the taciturn blond from Purdue is held.

"Defensively, we don't have to cover for anyone," says Washington linebacker Jack

NFL showdown approaching

By RON ROACH
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Quarterback Bill Kilmer of the Washington Redskins is familiar with Miami's "No-Name" defense—all 11 of them—for Sunday's Super Bowl VII National Football League showdown.

"They have a defense and they all have names, and I know every one, and their numbers, too," says Kilmer, who is joined by his ace wide receiver, Charley Taylor, in respecting the Dolphins' zone pass coverage.

"I don't think you'll see many bombs in this game, from the Redskins anyway," says Taylor. "There are times when they have broken down but Miami just doesn't make mistakes, and that's the key. The only time you're going to get a long pass is when somebody makes a mistake and they don't make mistakes."

Kilmer, who has talented receivers in Taylor, Roy Jefferson, Jerry Smith plus running backs Larry Brown and Charley Harraway, says Miami tries to force passes up the middle.

"They try to make you throw into areas where they can react," he says. "They try to funnel everything up the middle, and they just make you work for everything you can get."

The Dolphins have an extra wrinkle in their defense when the Redskins are in passing situations—the "53" defense. Bob Matheson, a mobile 235-pounder, replaces a down lineman, and another linebacker replaces a back giving Miami five linebackers, three down linemen and three backs.

"They have a man—Matheson—who can be a defensive end or a linebacker," says Kilmer. "Sometimes he drops off into pass protection. It's difficult to attack this defense because you're not sure what they're going to do."

The Redskins faced a version of the "53" defense against Buffalo during the regular season and lost, 24-17, when intercepted Kilmer passes proved the difference.

They key to passing against Miami will be establishing a running game to freeze the quick Dolphin linebackers, says Kilmer.

"Nick Buoniconti, Doug Swift and Mike Kolen are so quick that you can try and fake a run and they can get back into pass coverage. Sometimes you think you have them and they come up with the big play or big interception."

"You really try to throw behind the linebackers and in front of the defensive backs, so you're going to have to use a little bit of play action and try to hold those linebackers some way with the running game."

Buoniconti, leader of the Dolphin defense which he dubbed the "No Name" unit, and safety Dick Anderson discount criticism of Kilmer's passing—occasional wobbly throws and relatively few bombs.

"Anybody who can hit 14 of 18 passes against Dallas in a championship game can't be bad," says Buoniconti of the Redskins' 26-3 victory over the Cowboys.

"Sure it's a burn rap," says Anderson. "They say he doesn't throw long perhaps because he doesn't do it very much, but when he lays it up there, all his receivers have an average per catch that is fairly long."

The Miami defense, which intercepted 26 passes and had 33 sacks of quarterbacks during the season, will be without cornerback Tim Foley, sidelined with a shoulder injury. His replacement is Lloyd Mumphord.

Kilmer says he'll work on any defensive back if he can get Taylor or Jefferson man-for-man on him, but he won't necessarily pick on Mumphord.

Coach Don Shula of Miami disagrees.

"I'm sure they're going to try Mumphord and I'm sure Lloyd feels that way, too," says Shula.

"I don't know what their plans are and I don't really care," says Mumphord. "They can send what they want against me. I'll be there. That's it. I know what I can do."

Says Kilmer: "We don't plan to pick on any one man because basically you're going to face zone defenses and they give you areas. You're going to have to attack those areas and get your receivers in those areas."

Washington, like Miami, runs a lot more than it passes. Kilmer still managed to complete 120 of 225 passes for a 53.3 percentage and 19 touchdowns during the regular season.

Canadiens celebrate at North Stars' expense

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Henri Richard, Frank Mahovlich and Ken Dryden of the Montreal Canadiens all celebrated at the expense of the Minnesota North Stars Wednesday night.

Richard celebrated his first two goals of the National Hockey League season, Mahovlich enjoyed his 35th birthday and Dryden posted his fifth shutout of the season as Montreal walked Minnesota 6-0.

In other National Hockey League play, Toronto topped the New York Islanders 4-2, Detroit edged Pittsburgh 2-1, Atlanta stunned Chicago 4-2 and California edged St. Louis 6-5.

The victory enabled the Canadiens to move five points in front of the idle Boston Bruins in the East Division.

Paul Henderson scored two goals, including his 200th career goal, to pace the Toronto Maple Leafs over the New York Islanders. The loss extended the Islanders' losing streak to nine.

Bill Collins and Mickey Redmond scored goals in the second period and they were all the Detroit Red Wings needed to defeat the Pittsburgh Penguins.

Pittsburgh, which has only won two of its last 12 games, scored its goal in the second period on a shot by team scoring leader Syl Apps.

John Stewart and Jacques Richard both scored twice to spark the Atlanta Flames over West Division leading Chicago.

The victory moved the Flames to within seven points of the Black Hawks.

Hilliard Graves scored the winning goal as California beat St. Louis on "Half-Price Night" at Oakland. Seals' owner Charles O. Finley, attempting to boost attendance, has chopped admission prices in half for the final 20 games.

Survivor of crash relives disaster

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The sole survivor from the flight deck of a jetliner that went down in the Florida Everglades with the loss of 100 lives says he believes the cockpit crew died without knowing a crash was imminent.

"There was never any alarm or concern in the cockpit," Angelo Donadeo said from a hospital bed Wednesday. "I don't think anybody knew the crash was coming, even the captain."

Donadeo, 47, an Eastern Air Lines technical specialist, survived along with 75 passengers and stewardesses when the Eastern Lockheed L1011 TriStar crashed shortly before midnight Dec. 29. Among those killed were pilot Robert Loft, copilot Albert Stockstill and flight engineer Donald Repo.

The plane's first approach to Miami International Airport had been aborted because a warning light indicated a landing gear malfunction.

While making a second landing approach, the jetliner plunged into the murky waters of the Everglades 17 miles from the field.

Donadeo said he had boarded the TriStar at New York's Kennedy International Airport and was seated in a jump seat behind the pilot for the flight to Miami. He said he was returning home after a trouble-shooting mission at Kennedy.

Recalling the approach to Miami, Donadeo said "all of a sudden (Capt. Loft) was coming into the airport and reading the check list, found a discrepancy."

"It was the only discrepancy. A light indication that didn't agree with his landing gear. A bad lightbulb, bad circuitry or the gear was not down."

Donadeo said that moments before the crash he volunteered to help and joined Repo in the "hell hole," a compartment behind and below the cockpit.

From this area they were checking the landing gear, he said, looking through a peep hole into the wheel well.

"I put my eye to the hole — and the impact occurred," Donadeo said. "I had just reached the peephole, as you can see from my right eye."

"His dark brown eyes are red and swollen; his vision is still blurred. Donadeo also suffered damage to vertebrae, causing some paralysis, in addition to broken ribs, a fractured nose and other injuries."

He spent 2½ hours Tuesday talking with federal investigators who visited him. He said he has no clue to the cause of the crash.

A post-crash examination revealed that the landing gear of the jumbo jet was performing perfectly and a light had merely malfunctioned.

Peace talks slated on two fronts today

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — Vietnam peace talks were scheduled on two fronts in Paris today. Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho planned their fourth secret session of the week, while the usual speechmaking was in prospect at the weekly meeting of the semipublic, four-party talks.

Communist sources said Hanoi is still ready to sign the agreement drafted in October by President Nixon's top foreign policy adviser and the North Vietnamese Politburo member, but rejects major changes they say the United States is demanding.

Other informants also said North Vietnam has shown no inclination to make concessions despite the massive bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong last month. Nor were there any indications that Kissinger was giving ground.

The four-party talks were considered certain to produce new public assertions of Hanoi's and Saigon's position. These weekly talks have been deadlocked for four years and have served as little more than a forum for polemics by all sides.

Kissinger and Tho met for four hours Wednesday. The session was hosted by the North Vietnamese in a villa owned by the French Communist party in suburban Gif sur Yvette.

The two delegations again avoided meeting face to face before newsmen, but Kissinger shook hands with an unidentified North Vietnamese official as he entered the villa. It was the first publicly visible handshake in the current round of talks, which began Monday in an icy mood.

Both sides maintained their strict news blackout. State Department Press Officer Charles W. Bray III said in Washington that the Nixon administration's decision not to release news on developments in the talks was sensible and defensible. He said there is a standing injunction against either side or informed speculation on the talks. But he said U.S. missions abroad have been supplied with material American ambassadors could draw upon to explain Nixon's decision to renew the bombing of Hanoi last month. The material was not being made available in Washington.

Hanoi's Vietnam News agency reported that the Viet Cong has called for an urgent conference of nonaligned nations to help end the war. It said the Viet Cong foreign minister, Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, made the appeal Jan. 1 in letters to her counterparts in the Third World.

The South Vietnamese command reported 385 government troops killed in action last week, the highest toll in six weeks. Another 1,449 South Vietnamese troops were reported wounded and 86 were missing in action.

The Saigon command also reported 923 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed last week, the lowest enemy toll reported in nearly a year. Much of the enemy attacks were by rocket or mortar fire, reducing the risks for the Communists to a minimum.

The allied commands now have reported these total casualties for the war:
American — 45,931 killed in action, 10,296 deaths from non-hostile causes, 303,605 wounded, 1,805 missing or captured.
South Vietnamese — 162,428 killed in action, 434,364 wounded.
North Vietnamese and Viet Cong — 920,538 killed.

Three Americans killed in Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today that three Americans were killed in action last week, eight were wounded and two died of nonhostile causes. It was the lowest weekly toll since the start of the aerial blitz against Hanoi and Haiphong.

The Command's weekly casualty summary listed no missing or captured. It said that the total for the war in that category had decreased by one last week to 1,805. A spokesman said one missing man had been declared dead or some other adjustment had been made, but he did not know which.

Not included in today's report were eight Americans missing this week, in the loss of a fighter-bomber over North Vietnam Wednesday and of a helicopter just below the demilitarized zone on Monday.

A total of 109 Americans were reported killed, missing or captured in the two weeks of Dec. 17-30.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB What Causes Bags Under the Eyes?

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.
Dear Dr. Lamb—This may not seem important to you, but it is to me. How can you get rid of bags under your eyes? I've tried many things. What causes these?

Dear Reader—Directly underneath the eyelid is a small bag of fat. As people get older, unless they have remained very thin, this bag of fat increases in size leading to the typical baggy appearance that disturbs some people. Of course, with the enlargement of the bag of fat, the skin of the lower eyelid is stretched. The only satisfactory way of correcting this problem is by cosmetic surgery.

An incision is made along the rim of the lower eyelid just at the base of the eyelashes. With a little pressure beneath the eyeball, the bag of fat is literally popped out and excised. The excess skin is then removed and the incision sutured. It usually requires several months to regain full normal movement of the lower eyelid, since the muscles normally associated with the eyelid closure are attached to the skin in this region and are cut in the course of the operation.

Transitory accumulation of small amounts of fluid will also cause bags temporarily. This is more prominent in the morning and usually disappears by noon unless there is an associated medical problem.

Dear Dr. Lamb—My husband is a faithful reader of your column and would like to know this. He takes vitamin capsules and chews them. I have told him they will dissolve if he swallows them whole, and he will get the same benefit. He cannot accept that answer. He chews any pill or capsule and does not believe they can dissolve themselves, but that they go undigested through your system. Please explain the truth.

Dear Reader—Pills are designed to be dissolved in the digestive tract. The coating on them, including vitamin pills and capsules, is usually there to save you from having to experience their terrible taste. While it isn't true that medicines have to taste awful to be effective, it does seem to be true that a lot of good medicines taste pretty bad, including some vitamin preparations. Some pills are coated with a material to keep them from being dissolved in the stomach. This is because the types of chemicals in the pills might be destroyed by the acid digestive juices in the stomach, and it is desired that they be protected from this until they reach the intestine which is more alkaline. These are called enteric coated pills or capsules.

There are some pills that don't dissolve well in the digestive tract and might pass through without adequate absorption. This is a result of faulty preparation, if it should occur, and to my knowledge no pharmaceutical houses are intentionally making pills of this type.

Some pills should be chewed, but usually the doctor will give you this instruction or they will be on the prescription, or it will be on the bottle if it happens to be something you can buy yourself. As an illustration, many of the antacid tablets are chewed so that they will provide the most immediate and effective neutralizing action of the acid in the stomach. I think it's safe to say that your husband can swallow his vitamin pills and other pills and feel assured he will receive the full benefit from them.

Alcoholics need help, can find it

By CURTIS BUTTERFIELD
El Dorado News-Times
EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — Scorned by society and persecuted by themselves, an estimated 5,000 persons in a six-county area around El Dorado need help.

Their problem comes from a bottle and it's called alcohol. An estimated 3.8 per cent of the nation's population is composed of alcoholics. That's roughly two to three per city block.

Ralph Scott, director of the alcoholic treatment program at the South Arkansas Mental Health Center here, says: "An alcoholic is a person who has lost control of his or her drinking. In other words, he or she can't take one drink and stop."

The center's program involves Union, Calhoun, Columbia, Dallas, Nevada and Ouachita counties.

In the late 1960s, Congress approved legislation authorizing grants for organized psychiatric and medical approaches to the treatment of alcoholism. El Dorado was the 11th city in the nation to obtain a grant.

Scott said the project offers five basic services:

—A 24-hour emergency medical service.

—In-patient services to stabilize the patient's medical condition.

—Partial hospitalization.

—Out-patient services.

—Consultation and education.

"Alcoholism grasps people from all walks of life and is not confined to any economic or social group," Scott said. "The youngest patient we've had is a 17-year-old who was abusing alcohol and the oldest was over 70."

Patients of the program sometimes come on a voluntary basis, sometimes by court referral, sometimes by court commitment and sometimes as a result of medical emergency, he said.

The first task is to stabilize the patient's medical condition. That often involves hospitalization. When it's over, the patient is referred to the center for evaluation. If the individual accepts treatment, he submits to therapy which is "directed toward helping the patient gain insight into his or her problem and to learn to deal more effectively with the environment," Scott said.

The patient is sent to the immediate care facility for an average period of three weeks. This facility is a dormitory which provides a "structured living" situation, including meals, recreational activities, and so forth.

The treatment begins in the facility. Daily, at 8:30 a.m. patients are taken to the treatment center. The regime continues, with a short break for lunch, until 4:30 p.m.

Individual counseling, group therapy, psychological testing, vocational rehabilitation, related therapy and conditioning exercises are parts of the program.

"Some of our group therapy sessions get heated as hell," Scott said.

At the end of the day, the patient is returned to the dormitory. On weekend, relatives may "sign out" patients who are voluntarily participating in the program. Court permission may be required to "sign out" patients enrolled because of commitment by the court.

A patient still facing charges, however, may not be signed out until he has gone before a judge.

Weeknight departures from the immediate care facility are permitted only for attendance at meetings of Alcoholics Anonymous. The AA holds a meeting each Saturday night at the dormitory, also, Scott said.

The therapy program succeeded by out-patient therapy, such as family counseling and job counseling.

In many cases, Scott said, the plan includes voluntary use of Antabuse, a drug which will make a person severely ill if he consumes alcohol. Most patients fear that they will be unable to resist the temptation to drink and therefore refuse to take Antabuse, he said.

NAHB official says homebuilding industry is threatened

HOUSTON (AP) — The new president of the National Association of Home Builders says disaster is threatened in the industry by the current hold on new commitments for federal housing subsidies.

George C. Martin of Louisville, Ky., said he will continue to bid for a meeting with President Nixon to discuss the temporary hold on new loans and medium income housing commitments by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Housing Secretary George Romney had told the builders that the President is delaying any new commitments to allow time for a basic review and reform of the housing program by the administration and Congress.

Martin, a contractor, was elected president of the association Wednesday. He succeeds Stanley Waranch of Norfolk, Va.

Other officers elected included president of the association Wednesday. He succeeds Stanley Waranch of Norfolk, Va.

Other officers elected included Lewis Canker, Atlanta, Ga., first vice president; J. S. Norman, Houston, vice president-treasurer; and John Hunt, Indianapolis, Ind., who won a three-man race for vice president-secretary.

The convention ended today with routine business transactions. The official attendance was announced at 58,219 breaking the previous high of 54,803 last year. Delegates will return here next year for the sixth straight Houston convention but will meet in Dallas 1975 through 1977.

Martin said he also hopes to meet with HUD officials to find out how existing commitments and statutory obligations will keep subsidized housing starts at the present record pace of 500,000 units a year through 1974 as indicated by the Nixon Administration.

The NAHB board of directors issued a policy statement Wednesday saying inflation and unemployment will result if there is a complete halt in subsidized housing programs such as those provided under Sections 235 and 236 of the National Housing Act.

The statement added that the stopping of new commitments works a hardship on low income families and on home builders who have bought land and committed money and manpower to build the subsidized units.

Martin told newsmen that the housing industry also is being damaged because the President is refusing to spend congressional appropriations for water and sewer work and for rural housing programs that produced about 200,000 subsidized units in 1971 and 1972.

He said the housing industry will not oppose the confirmation of a non-builder for the HUD cabinet post being given up by Romney.

Undersecretary of Commerce James D. Lynn, a Cleveland lawyer, had been nominated to head the department.

A representative of the Office of Emergency Preparedness told a NAHB panel on the energy crisis Wednesday that the United States must find ways of producing more energy in ways compatible with environmental goals.

Dr. Robert H. Kupperman, assistant to the director for science and technology in the OEP, said a better educated public would do wonders for the problem.

"Any reasonable approach to these national problems must take into account both the need to protect our environment and the necessity of having adequate energy supplies," Kupperman said.

IS KILLED

PINE-BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Dan Johnson, 70, of Pine Bluff was killed Wednesday when his clothing caught fire at his home.

Jefferson County Coroner Havis Hester said Johnson's sister, Allie Woodbury, 80, was burned seriously in the incident.

The coroner said the accident occurred when Johnson, seated in a wheelchair because he is an amputee, propped his foot on a heater, his shoe apparently caught fire and his sister bent over to remove the shoe.
